

Yen-Hung (Austin) Lin, MD, PhD, FESC

Attending physician, Division of Cardiology, Department of Internal Medicine, National Taiwan University Hospital, Taipei, Taiwan Clinical Professor, Department of Internal Medicine, National Taiwan University College of Medicine, Taipei, Taiwan

Director of Cardiac Intensive Care Unit, Cardiovascular Center, National Taiwan University Hospital

President, Taiwan Society of Hypertension
President, Taiwan Society of Aldosteronism
Head of cardiovascular research team, TAIPAI study group
Chairman, Hypertension Committee, Taiwan Society of Cardiology
Associate Editor, Journal of American Heart Association

Brief Biography

Dr. Yen-Hung Lin received his Doctor of Medicine degree in School of Medicine, National Taiwan University and his Master of Medical Science degree in Graduate Institute of Clinical Medicine, School of Medicine, National Taiwan University in 1999 and 2005, respectively. Then he received his PhD degree in Graduate Institute of Clinical Medicine, School of Medicine, National Taiwan University in 2011. He received full course of residency training in Internal Medicine and Cardiology in National Taiwan University Hospital since 1999 to 2004. He is presently an Attending Physician in the Division of Cardiology, Department of Internal Medicine, National Taiwan University Hospital, and a Clinical Professor in Department of Internal Medicine, School of Medicine, National Taiwan University.

He is the co-founder of TAIPAI (Taiwan Primary Aldosteronism Investigation) research group, and leads the cardiovascular research team in the group. He is currently the president of Taiwan Society of Hypertension and Taiwan Society of Aldosteronism. He participates the consensus of primary aldosteronism diagnosis (2018) and treatment (2019) in Taiwan. In addition, he joins the writing of positional paper of primary aldosteronism diagnosis and treatment in European hypertension society (2020). His research interests focus on 1) Cardiac and vascular function and structure change in primary aldosteronism; 2) Translational research of aldosterone-induced cardiac and vascular fibrosis/ dysfunction; 3) Non-linear analysis of heart rhythm in various medical conditions; 4) Pulmonary Hypertension, mainly focus on CTEPH; 5) Biomarkers in various cardiovascular disease, including heart failure, hypertensive heart disease, and coronary artery disease; 6) Telemedicine.

Dr. Lin received several awards, including the Young Investigator Award of the Taiwan Society of Cardiology in 2013, and Annual Award of Best Paper of Taiwan Society of atherosclerosis and vascular disease in 2006, 2007, and 2013-2015. In 2017, he received Noon-Ting Memorial Award (Distinguish Research Award) of Taiwan Society of Cardiology. He is currently the associate editor of Journal of American Heart Association (JAHA) and Acta Cardiologica Sinica and the editor of Medicine and Journal of Medical Ultrasound, He also has published more than 250 papers.